Parent Training and Information Center

Parent Training and Information Centers (PTIs) help educate and empower families and professionals to improve outcomes for children with disabilities.

Nevada PEP is Nevada’s only Parent Training and Information Center

What Is A PTI?
PTI stands for Parent Training and Information Center. PTIs are non-profit organizations funded throughout the nation by the U.S. Department of Education under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). PTIs support families of children with disabilities by providing services and resources. The national network is made up of over 100 Parent Centers throughout the United States helping over 7 million children.

What Can I Expect at a PTI?
When you contact Nevada PEP, you can expect to find a family of families caring, supporting and guiding one another through the challenges of raising a child with a disability. Nevada PEP’s representatives are likely to be parents and siblings of children with disabilities or have disabilities themselves. They are able to bring personal experience, expertise and empathy when working with families.

How Does Nevada PEP Help Families?
Serves families of children from all disabilities categories, birth to age 26.

Helps families learn about their children’s disabilities.

Teaches families useful strategies for communicating with school and other professionals.

Helps families use resources to find appropriate services for their children.

Helps families understand their rights and responsibilities under IDEA, ESSA, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and other related topics.

Provides conflict resolution support to families who are obtaining services for their children.

Works collaboratively to improve educational results for all children.

Nevada PEP Provides:
Information, resources, support, and training workshops to both parents and professionals.
Nevada PEP empowers families and gives them the tools they need to address their child’s educational needs.

Training Workshops Offered
In both English and Spanish

Early Intervention and IFSP’s

Special Education Process

IEP Development

Specific Disabilities

Positive Behavior Interventions

Bullying Prevention

Reading Strategies

Transition from High School

Support Groups

...and more!

How Can I Contact Nevada PEP?
Parents may request assistance, free of charge, by calling any Nevada PEP office.

Toll-Free: 800.216.5188
Southern Nevada 702.388.8899
Northern Nevada 775.448.9950

Nevada PEP Believes:

That every person has an unrealized potential for growth, and that services should be designed to maximize that potential.